

Satellite Radio is a great service and provides a benefit to all of its listeners. The traffic and weather stations are extremely useful. In addition, the variety of music and entertainment and quality cannot be found on radio today. It should be the choice of the people whether or not they wish to pay for these services. If someone chooses to do so, the programming that they are provided should not try to be limited by any types of laws or the NAB. I trust in XM that they will provide a service that benefits its listeners. As one of the first XM subscribers several years ago, I know that they work hard every day to meet this goal. I am a proud listener of XM radio and am glad to see that they have finally brought radio to a new level. I fully support their efforts and hope that the advances they have brought will not be cut down by certain groups that are out to protect their own interests.
